"Having chosen to engage with Ciklum for our EPiServer portal development it has been a relief to see technically competent, intelligent and pro-active Ciklum employees handle all matters contractual, planning, estimation and development – in a manner most IT-management consultancy houses in Western Europe would be hard pressed to top.

With the first sprints in place you have truly surprised all of us here in Copenhagen! The site is beautiful, functional, exciting, cool, interesting and exactly what our users and partners are looking for. We are blown away by how fast you have developed all of the new functionality – before we just had a pretty graphical interface – now we have a site which we can be proud of!"

Ciklum is a Danish software development company with 700 developers based in Ukraine working exclusively for our 90+ Western European customers. One of Ciklum's customers is EPiServer who has an efficient and streamlined team of 9 product developers in Kiev since spring 2008. Ciklum has several other clients – both permanent dedicated client teams and project based clients – working with EPiServer's products: EPiServer CMS, Relate+, Mail, Community, Composer, etc.

Ciklum's project department has an extensive experience working with Digital Marketing Agencies – your contact person has worked for 8 years delivering customers projects for agencies like Wunderman (WPP). Additionally, the project department is using the best practice process framework that has been developed through the vast experience gained from working from multiple locations with GUI based projects for a large number of Digital Marketing Agencies.

Ciklum offers EPiServer Partners the following services:

- Full time dedicated developers available for medium to long term projects. Developers belong to the customer and thus long term knowledge is build.
- Turn Key Project deliveries based on a fixed price or time and material.
- A voucher consisting of 50 development hours including project management. This guarantees you the availability of the needed experienced resources on a short notice.

Very flexible engagement models:

Your advantages:

- Gain flexibility when you need development resources for your customer projects
- Fast start and high quality due to proven experience
- Lack of resources will not be a bottle neck for you when delivering customer projects
- Fixed price ensuring that you keep your planned budget and profit margin on customer projects
